

CAPT. MORRIS KNOWN AS CLEAN-UP MAN, IS CZAR OF TENDERLOIN

Chance of Being a Full Inspector If He Makes Good—Herlihy Retired.

Capt. Frank Morris who has been in charge of the upper Bronx as acting inspector for several months was transferred by Commissioner Woods to-day to the Third District comprising the old tenderloin. This is the district which was in charge of Capt. James Gillen until the recent Commissioner McKay preferred charges against him and ordered him to resign.

Morris is what is known as a "clean up" man. He worked wonders in the Third District street precinct and the Adams street precinct in Brooklyn, and in recognition of his services Commissioner Woods made him an acting inspector and sent him up to the Bronx to get accustomed to the routine of the command of a district.

Since Gillen was suspended on charges the Third District has been looked after by Inspector Caballero, who has had, in addition, command of an east side district and charge of the School of Recruits. Morris will have a chance to show in his new command whether he should be promoted to a full inspectorship.

Gillen's trial closed yesterday. Commissioner Woods said to-day that he would not appoint an inspector to succeed Gillen until the decision in the Gillen case is announced. From this it is assumed at headquarters that Gillen has a chance to "beat" the charges.

Inspector John D. Herlihy was retained to-day at his own request. He is fifty-nine years old and has been a policeman thirty-seven years. His application for retirement was put in some time ago. With Herlihy out there is an actual vacancy in the ranks of inspectors.

Blue-Plush Past and Hand-Painted Crimes In Merciless View at Bad Taste Exhibition

Atrocities of a Generation Ago on View, but Even as Spectators Shudder They Are Thrilled With Old-Home Memories.

By Marguerite Moores Marshall.

You'll remember, you'll remember the house where you were born when you go to the Exhibition of Bad Taste, just opened at the Modernist Studios, No. 28 East Thirty-second street. You may as well be honest about it. Can you deny that there was a what-not in the corner of your mother's parlor, its shelves adorned with conch shells, wax flowers under glass and a plush photograph-case? Can you solemnly swear that your big sister didn't have a stuffed boot pin-cushion on her black walnut bureau? Was your home graced with a Rogers group? Then you are to be pitied, for the "casket of domestic fine art" makes its finest and most mirthful appeal to the persons not ashamed of chromo and worsted work paste.

Artists, authors and architects banded together to discover the most awful atrocities perpetrated in the names of art and home between 1880 and 1890. Until May 3 these crimes will be displayed at the Modernist Studios. The exhibits of the worst hideousities will receive still others as prizes. For a storage warehouse sent in a large donation stipulating only that no article should be returned. As one enters the door of the exhibition room one beholds a bureau of the good old mo tuary variety—black walnut frame and white marble slab, with the curious sagging depression in the middle. On and around that bureau are the inevitable horrors: A blue plush jewel-case, a blue plush, satin-lined photograph case, a tall gilded boot pin-cushion, a red with red ribbons, an imitation redish pin-cushion. A small gilded rolling pin, coily, set with books for hanging up button-hooks. Two large gilded spoons, each strung on baby ribbons, also for button-hooks.

THAT OLD ROCKER THAT PINCHED YOUR FINGERS. In the corner close by stands, a much moulded and pinnacled bedstead with a hand-painted silk spread. Just beyond is the dear old-fashioned rocker, the kind that pivots on a solid foundation and that was always jamming your fingers so badly when you lieve it." COTTAGE MELODEON AND NOT SO OLD SINGERS. Behind it is the dear old cottage melodeon, around which Samuel Merwin, Franklin P. Adams and others "tastefully" grouped themselves last night to sing "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep" and "Listen to the Mocking Bird." In 1890 they hadn't reached the artistic heights of "The Curfew of Aching Heart." But what quantities of time and daylight was lavished by the women of those pre-white-slavery days! Consider the picture frame over the melodeon, on every quarter-inch a quarter-inch shell from a pine cone, with trimmings of small cones and acorns and a coat of varnish over the whole! Consider the melodeon stool-covering, its centre of plush, bordered with squares of embroidered felt, and rows of tassels painstakingly sewed on as a "finish." Consider the embroidered picture-throw, the pink crepe-paper lampshades, the creel-work mottoes and "designs!" O temporal! O mortal! Consider a thermometer considered a shamelessly immoral object thirty years ago? One would infer as much, from the carefully contoured thermometers exhibited at the Bad Taste Show. There is one applied daintily against the handle of a miniature brass parrot, (they applied against the inevitable plush. Another thermometer is inset in the stem of a big key, also plush-supported.

MUCH OF THE ART IN SIX LEGS SHOWN. Then there is the rocking foot-stool; "exercises in the home," Mrs. Beatrice Forbes-Robertson Hale calls it. It is placed in front of a rocking chair, and the game consists in rocking yourself both fore and aft at the same moment. For variety you may change to the folding rocking chair, which has all of a prima donna's temperamental instability.

"Sweetly posited" pictures are on view, most of them by the six-legged-in-art young ladies of the eighties. One had the happy thought of painting a cat on a wooden chair. Another painted a woman on a chair. A third painted a woman on a chair. A fourth painted a woman on a chair. A fifth painted a woman on a chair. A sixth painted a woman on a chair.

lamp banner and a squadron of jars and plaques. Among more ambitious works is a portrait of a small boy which started out to be head and shoulders and was then swatched off to a full length. The artist's impotent rage at having to give so much more for the money is plainly visible in the expression of the infant. It looks as if it wanted to bite through an eight penny nail. A grandpa bearded like a pard and a rope framed lithograph of the well-known George Washington are also included in the collection. Don't miss the framed sea monster, the framed hair wreaths, the mammoth mustache cup labelled "Grandpa," the china dogs, the ewer dish with a gilt-headed white hen for cover, the home-made bunjo (not for use), the velvet lined bread toaster photograph case, the lamp with a red bowl, the china stork umbrella stand, the sine squirrel, holding a pink glass vase. Don't, don't miss the baby with the hand painted head and arms and the frilly muslin frock deftly sewed to the canvas. And don't miss the worsted work mottoes: "Home, Sweet Home," "God Bless Our Home," "There's No Place Like Home!" There isn't—but there was, THERE WAS!
